

XM Radio is a service I chose to subscribe too. What are they doing that doesn't please NAB. It sounds like they are more interested in the bottom line of their business than having information no matter how is presented, (radio, tv, newspaper, etc.) gets out to the people. Competition should be welcomed by the FCC. It only improves what's out there. XM is one of the best things to come along, especially when you are stuck in traffic.